

SILICON VALLEY YOUTH

2021-2022 OPERATING YEAR

TO THE READER:

Recovering from the COVID-19 Pandemic has been a truly difficult time for Silicon Valley Youth. I would like to thank all of the parents, staff, and students for sticking with us, and supporting us throughout the virtual year.

Although we faced many challenges, I would like to mention the following accomplishments and improvements.

- I would first like to mention the new system of rules and regulations that we have set in place over this year. Through a series of finalized documents, we have established the responsibilities for each staff and parent position, as well as a list of common procedures and practices. Although these are still new, I hope that we will be able to smooth out many more problems in the future.
- Throughout 2021-2022, SVY has also been able to increase its outreach and donation limits.
 - In terms of outreach, we have been able to set up panels and seminars with record limits of attendance, thanks to the digital meetings and advertisements.
 - We have also began partnering with local school districts and organizations, and reopening our borders to host and sponsor such events.
- SVY has also begun to host and promote its own competition events in areas of math and science to creative and critical writing. Although many of these competition events are still small scale, we would like to continue encouraging teachers to host their own competitions, and to help interact with the community and beyond.
- Finally, SVY applied for the CLA award this year, and we placed second among groups of 50 volunteer organizations. I would like to thank all of the staff and parents for making this achievement possible,

There are countless other activities, staff members, advisors, parents, and events that occurred over the past year that I am vastly grateful for. 2021 - 2022 marks the first, and hopefully only, year that SVY has been fully virtual, and despite the struggle of not being able to interact in person, I am infinitely grateful for all of the effort I have seen within our community.

BY THE NUMBERS:

Despite the virtual environment, SVY has maintained its steady growth in terms of both enrollment and revenue. Due to a combination of successful marketing and awareness, SVY has been able to further its success

We here at SVY have also begun to slowly but surely reincorporate ourselves to give back to the community.

I believe that the most important aspect so far has been staff run competitions. Throughout 2020-2021, we hosted our first math, science, and writing competitions, all of which were widely successful.

We have also begun to give back in person, and have started volunteering and donating again.

DONATIONS:

SVY has always had a focus on supporting underprivileged school districts around us with the proceeds from our classes. Despite the challenges brought on by the virtual environment, we still found ways to support our local districts. Below are our two largest donation projects.

Ravenswood School District

During the holiday season, we here at SVY donated a total of $10,700 to cover every single RCSD middle schooler's holiday present of a $20 gift card. We have a long lasting relationship with the Ravenswood School District, and this marks the first year where we have been able to provide a gift for every single student in an entire school! Events and Awards

Throughout the 2021-2022 year, SVY has also been able to donate across a variety of events. Due to SVY's success, we were able to sponsor competitions and incentivize students to participate and contribute their best efforts. We have also begun to incorporate funding for local volunteer events and donations to community volunteering events.

COMMENDATIONS

"We would like to express our deepest appreciation for your generous donation to our students. Your generous donation will brighten the holidays for our students and middle school families."

Gina Sudaria

Ravenswood District Superintendent

"Your generous support of the children, families, and teachers of Ravenswood has had such a tremendous impact. We are so grateful for your commitment and partnership."

Jenna Wachtel Pronovost

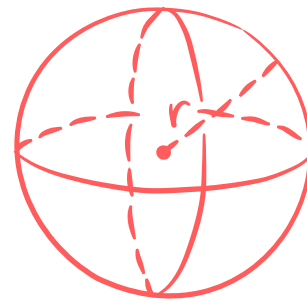

Executive Director,
Ravenswood Education Foundation

COMPETITIONS

Whether it is monetary donations, in person tutoring, leading community initiatives, the focus — and mission — of SVY has always been about giving back to the community. This past year, SVY hosted a series of successful panel events, where we invited SVY leaders share their experience with others. Speakers spoke on topics like college life, time management, school courses, extracurricular activities, and leadership. Through these panel events, we managed to reach and inspire over 700 students across the world, who came to listen to our seminars both in person and virtually.

SEMESTER 1:

The Fall 2021 semester marked the first time where SVY opened up its doors to hosting events. Our Math department hosted SVY's initial competition, totaling over 70 signups and over 700 dollars in prizes and merchandise. We are thankful to those involved in kickstarting such an event!

SEMESTER 2

During our second semester, more staff members stepped forward and helped begin their own competitions. We initiated a Science and Me video competition and Writing Competition with the Student Partner with Veterans organization. In total, we were able to award an additional 700 dollars in awards for local students.
